- Their accessibility and privacy

Many of our châteaux also have working vineyards, producing their own wine using ancient techniques as well as the latest technology. These provide a unique insight into wine production and the opportunity to appreciate the true beauty of the vine first hand.

The region is comprised of five wine growing areas, The Médoc, Graves, The Libournais, Bourg & Blaye and Entre-Deux-Mers, and is home to some of the finest wine-producing vineyards in the world. Each château also affords convenient access to the Atlantic coast and the delightful Bay of Arcachon. The region's climate is classified as 'oceanic' however, summers tend to be warmer and winters milder than most areas of similar classification.*
